

STUDY ABOUT ME/CFS PLEASE SHARE

Hi,

A friend of mine suffers from ME/CFS, a very disabling, chronic disease. A large genetic study in the UK could make a big difference to her and about two million other people who have this disease in Europe alone. The study will allow scientists to find out more about the likely causes of ME/CFS, which in turn will help to finally find effective treatments.

The study, DecodeME, is still looking for participants with ME/CFS. Will you help spread the word?

Details about the study and how to take part:

<https://www.decode-me.org.uk/>

Ways to share via email or social media:

<https://www.decode-me.org.uk/ways-to-share/>

Or you can share a letter my friend wrote to family and friends she has not been able to contact for some time since her illness worsened.

https://sofasophia.blogda.ch/wp-content/uploads/sites/2/2023/04/letter-for-share_ME-CFS-Study-Studie-en-de-1.pdf

The call is primarily intended to reach people in the UK. Even if you don't have any direct contacts there – sharing on facebook or forwarding the email increases the chance that it will reach a potential study participant.

Thank you for reading and sharing!